The DIMMER VIEW

How One Pol Got the Message

All politicians become disappointed after they lose an election.

They recount how they talked to many, many people and they were assured of their support.

What they realize much later is that they were talking with people who were friendly to their cause. They had missed reaching the ones they needed to win — those undecided or those needing to be converted.

Such a realization in reverse came to one of our top national officials last week while he was in the hustings to convince farmers that the President's water policy is sound and that it would serve the people's needs best. The national organization to which he was speaking in California are hard-working and sincere farmers. The organization was dedicated to water resources and development.

He was looking into a mass of angry faces as he spoke. As Andrus tells it: "As they glared at me I got the feeling that I had been there before. Almost instantly I began to understand why many of the faces were familiar. I'd seen them all at similar meetings elsewhere in California, in Idaho and in Washington, as well as other places.

". . . the faces did not belong to the ranks of working farmers, but to federal, state and local water agency officials and other white-collar professionals of the water development bureaucracy. I realized that instead of explaining our policies to hundreds of thousands of genuine farmers and other water users, I was trying, once again, to persuade the people whose very jobs hinged on defending every water project that comes down the pike, regardless of whether it's good for the greatest number of Americans.

"Understandably, these folks had come to equate their own interest with the public interest.

". . . I put aside my prepared speech and tried to talk straight from my shoulder to the real farmers in the audience. It was frustrating because I didn't see all that many farmers, with calluses on their hands or broken fingernails or sunburned faces and pale foreheads.

"My message: Either we can continue to waste time fighting over the 'dogs' that aren't worth building, or we can work together to determine where we are going to build worthwhile projects.

"(If we do) we can decide on what's happening to the quality and amount of our underground water supplies. We can devote time and effort to working with Congress, and to consulting with states and local interests to determine what their real needs are, and to ensure sound planning of water resource projects."

What Andrus was saying is that we can't afford to get ourselves bogged down in endless debates over pork-barrel fiascos that return only 50 cents benefits for every tax dollar spent, and that wastes millions of hard-earned taxpayer dollars on projects that benefit a relative few.

He was also admitting that the bureaucrats have the taxpayer by the throat and are not going to let go until the public demands it.

"Projects that don't cut the mustard should not be unloaded onto the backs of the groaning American taxpayer," Andrus added.

We are not altogether overwhelmed by the words of Mr. Andrus. We wonder if he would have acknowledged his inability to get a handle on one of the President's prime programs had it not been triggered by the Jarvis Gahn revolt Bill in California.

We see such political concern over that Bill that politicians are "confessing" that irregularities in government exists and that bureaucrats should take the blame.

Next we should be hearing from the bureaucrats who will complain that the politicians are causing grave discrepencies in the good housekeeping of our government.

Regardless of whether Jarvis-Gahn stirred it up or not, the hue and cry should continue to grow until the people will demand controls to bring prudence back into governmental spending.

Government Increases Aid To Senior Lunch Program

Federally funded nutrition programs such as the Spring Valley-Lemon Grove Nutrition program will be receiving a 33 percent increase in cash assistance this year, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Foreman.

The programs will be receiving 38.5 cents per meal in donated foods or cash assistance instead of the 29.25 current rate.

The Spring Valley-Lemon Grove program serves between 170-180 meals a day according to Linda Pflueger, director of the program.

Pflueger said the meals cost $1.55 and participants are asked for a 50 cent donation. Although the donation is not mandatory, the monies received from donations help provide better quality meals or more meals for additonal seniors.

The purpose of the noontime program, Pflueger said, is to make sure seniors receive at least one hot meal a day Mondays-Fridays.

It also helps seniors stretch their food budget, Pflueger added.

Even though the programs will be receiving more money, seniors will still be asked to make donations according to Roger Bailey, director of the Title VII program for San Diego county.

Bailey said seniors who are 60, or are the spouse of someone 60, are eligible for the program.

Meals are served in Lemon Grove at the Lemon Grove Community Center, 3146 School Lane and in Spring Valley at the Lord of Life Lutheran Church, 950 Luther ave..

Circus Schedules Charity Shows

Over 15,000 men, women and children from San Diego County will be the guests of Cliff Vargas, President of Circus Vargas, for one of three charity shows which will be presented by the circus when it arrives in San Diego.

The charity shows, which feature 150 animals and 125 performers, will be presented on January 8 at the Mission Valley Center, on January 10 at Plaza Camino Real, and on January 15 at the College Grove Center. Charitable organizations that would like to attend one of these free performances are urged to call Mark Lyons at 583-5820.

Public performances of Circus Vargas are scheduled in the 5,000-seat tent from January 5-8, Mission Valley Center, January 9-11 at Plaza Camino Real, and January 12-15 at College Grove Center.

Weather Top Lemon Grove Story in '78

As this year ends, let's take a glance back at what atttracted our attention during the past 12 months.

The rains came, and came, and came, making the weather the number one story in Lemon Grove for 1978.

Storms dropped a total of 27.65 inches of rain here causing some damage to the area with mud slides and flooding. More than 21 inches of rain came before the end of the rain season on June 30.

Lemon Grove, testing its wings as a new city, found the process complicated with the passage of Proposition 13 which limited income by cutting homeowners' taxes.

This is how it all went by months:

JANUARY

The new infant year was wet. The heaviest rainfall came on January 15. One week alone registered 4.72 inches.

EPIC (Effective Problem Intervention Center) of Lemon Grove and the L.G. Youth Center grouped to provide counseling services for some 320 referrals which the police, courts and schools anticipated making each month.

18 reservists of the Sheriff's Department Reserves were cited for contributing 500 or more hours of their free time to aid officers of the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office.

A Lemon Grove porn shop was ordered to take items off its shelves until the products were propertly labeled with the contents. The shop had been burglarized during the previous year and the list of items missing would make HUSTLER readers blush.

FEBRUARY

The first lawsuit was filed against the city of L.G. by EdCo Disposal Corp. over a zoning ordinance. Ed Burr, EdCo president, said the city labeled his facility a trucking terminal when it was actually a repair facility. Trucking terminals are banned in M-zones. The facility is in an M-zone.

Lemon Grove received $200,000 of Block Grant Aid for community improvement. The money was earmarked for expansion of the community center, a traffic signal, for implementing the L.G. general plan and for the improvement at the Berry st. Park.

Free eye exams were given to local 1st, 2nd, and 3rd graders on behalf of the L.G. Lion's Club White Cane Drive, an annual project of the service club.

The rains continued and the Metropolitan Water District of Southern Calif. dropped the water conservation surcharge imposed because of the previous year's drought. Rain was at total of 16.9" at that point for the season.

A change in the zoning ordinance of L. G. from R-1-A to R-2-A affecting nearly 80 percent of all property in L. G. Many property owners moved to hurry construction on duplexes and rentals on lots to beat the March 6 deadline.

An auto thief used a motorhome to ram a gate to create a hole in which to steal another home, valued at $30,000 from Camperland, a camper sales lot on Federal blvd. near College Grove.

MARCH

Fire caused $300,000 damage to the L.G. Coronet variety store on Broadway. Some 40 firemen of L.G., Spring Valley, La Mesa and El Cajon worked in a futile attmept to save the building. Firemen attributed the cause of the blaze to a short circuit in a fluorescent night light. It was believed it short-circuited when power returned following a blackout which swept San Diego county after an explosion at a SDG&E plant in Chula Vista.

H. Warren Buckner became the director of the Helix Water District replacing veteran director Harry Griffen.

Michael Ugalde, a 20-year veteran of the S. D. post office was appointed permanent postmaster of the L.G. post office.

Sheriff John Duffy denied a renewal on the license for the Spring Valley swap meet after area residents complained of traffic and trash problems.

APRIL

The new L. G. Little League Park — a 20-year dream — opened April 24.

The largest Old Timers Day parade ever was held with the parade theme "Going on One" in recognition of the city's first birthday. Over 138 units participated.

2 suspects were accused of beating an 18-year-old man at the L.G. Jack-in-the-Box so severely he would require months of plastic surgery.

The Board of Supervisors gave the Spring Valley swap meet a 6-month conditional license to operate.

Another law suit was filed against the city, this time by the L. G. Fire Fighters Association for re-instatement of a sick-leave policy that was in effect until the city incorporated.

18-year-old Kathy Stenbeck became the 25th Miss Lemon Grove.

MAY

The first L.G. Planning Commission was formed by the city council to oversee all matters pertaining to Land use.

The L.G. Junior High marching band won a first place trophy at the annual Maytime Band Review in National City.

Freeway ramp signals were installed on Westbound Free-

1 PROMOTED, 2 TRANSFERRED — Lt. Douglas Clements, for 15 months assistant station commander at the Sheriff's Lemon Grove facility and Lt. Walter Patroske, the station's administrative officer, are being transferred in a wide-ranging sheriff's shuffle.
Petroske, now a sergeant, has been at the station 4 years; he becomes a lieutenant with the transfer.

Promotions, Transfers Listed by S.D. Sheriff

Belated Christmas presents in the form of promotions for 15 sheriff's officers were announced by County Sheriff John Duffy.

The promotions, effective February 9, will result in massive transfers within the department.

2 of the persons involved are presently assigned to the Lemon Grove office while 6 others were well-known locally due to prior service here.

Promoted to lieutenant is Sgt. Walter Patroske who heads the local patrol squad. Upon his promotion he is being transferred to the county-wide communications facility.

Lt. Doug Clements, of the Lemon Grove station, also transfers to communication center.

Others who have served in Lemon Grove in recent years include: Inspector Barney Oldham who takes command of the operations in north county and Inspector Richard Sandberg, replaced by Oldham in the north county, who will head special services at Duffy's headquarters.

Captain Charles Wiggington, who once served in Lemon Grove as a sergeant, replaces Captain Frank Hill as commander of the Santee station who assumes command of all sheriff's operations in the east county. Hill commanded the Lemon Grove office several years ago.

Lt. Gene Moyer, formerly a detective at Lemon Grove and now at County Jail, is transferred to homicide and Lt. Joe Bingham, formerly of Lemon Grove and now in communications goes to Encinitas.

Patrol sergeant Jay LaSeur, recently transferred from Lemon Grove to command the mains in that post. He was promoted to lieutenant in the shuffle.

Other transfers and promotions were listed but none have local relevance.

Class for Teachers Returns to Basics

The community and the press are calling for education that returns to the basics, says teacher Edward L. Lamping of the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District.

"However, back to basics doesn't have to mean back to drudgery," he contends, noting that the need to make the academics relevant to children is important today and there are classroom activities designed to make this learning both relevant and basic.

Lamping will be sharing these activities in a new UC San Diego Extension course for teachers beginning January 10. Titled "Back to Basics —Teaching the 4 R's," the class will be held 7-10 p.m. Wednesdays, January 10- February 14 in Room 1116, Humanities Library bldg., on UCSD's Revelle Campus. The fee is $45.

Among the topics to be covered in the class will be mathematics—practical application of facts and measuring, reading for pleasure and comprehension, reading for information and problem solving, creative writing and poetry, reports and letter writing.

The phone regarding this UCSD Extension course is 452-3400.

Three Crimes At Once Keep L.G. Cops Busy

It was a busy night for the sheriff's department in Lemon Grove after a unit was assigned to a burglary call at Simon's Pawn Shop at 7771 Broadway in Lemon Grove.

The place had been burglarized and later, Ron Hogan, owner of the firm, was to list guns worth $4,000 and jewelry worth $50,000 as missing.

About the same time an armed robbery of the Casa de Oro Jack in the Box was taking place.

There was also a plea from a resident at Sweetwater Lodge on Sweetwater rd., that a mobilehome was being broken into by a man with a rake breaking the window.

Officers waiting for Hogan to come from his home with keys to the pawn shop, ordered ladders to check the roof.

Meanwhile deputies were apprehending 2 males who were conducting a robbery at Jack in the Box. That required 2 patrol units — one for each of the suspects. The money was recovered and the suspects were being transported to County Jail.

Officers responding to rake wielders call realizing that the subject had to be subdued because he was using the metal rake as a weapon against the officers. He reportedly was swinging the rake wildly shouting to the officers "kill me; go on kill me."

One of the units with a Jack in the Box suspect inside responded to the call for aid. He had earlier reported" we've got crooks in all our units."

So did the officers investigating the burglary at the pawn shop because there were no other units available.

The rake-swinger had managed a stand-off by demanding his own death. Officers could see that he was not of sound mind — at least temporaily. They didn't want to injure him.

The officer with the prisoner in his patrol unit crept behind the rake-swinger and threw an empty quart oil can at him striking him in the head. The empty can weighed possibly a couple of ounces. The rake-swinger probably thought his request had been heeded — that he had been shot in the head. He fell prostrate but officers soon revived him and transported him to county jail.

The pawn shop owner was miffed because the burglary investigation had not been entirely completed. When it was resumed the loss was totaled and fingerprints taken and if the burglar had been in the area he was gone by then.

But the box score was not too shabby. 2 crimes had been halted and the burglary detail are still tracking down good finger print clues on the pawn shop burglary.

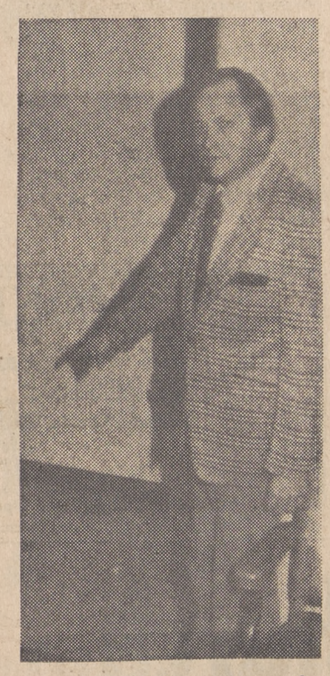
Hogan has operated the pawn shop only since September. Norman Bartel, the former owner, had been burglarized several months earlier. The SWAT team arrived while the place was being looted. The SWAT team talked one of the burglars into surrendering but 2 others had fled the scene.

The above activity took place during the early morning hours of December 17.

Lemon Grove Pastor Robbed at Gunpoint

The doors to the office of the Lemon Grove United Church of Christ are usually unlocked at night when meetings are being held in the church's conference room adjacent to the main office. Reverend Fred Bradley says this won't be true anymore, after he was robbed at gunpoint by two men who came through that unlocked door.

"We generally leave the door open," Bradley said. This allows church members to come and go as they need to. "No more—we'll lock the door," he said.



RIGHT HERE — Reverend Fred Bradley points to the spot where gunmen forced him to lay down after they robbed him. After robbing Bradley, the gunmen fled.

Bradley was involved in a meeting in the conference room of the church. He heard a noise but wasn't really sure what it was. He said as he rounded a corner into the main office, a gun was pointed at his face and he was told to be quiet.

"I was concerned about the safety of the people (in the other room)" Bradley said. (Bradley said there were about 15 people in the conference room and no one in the front office.)

"I don't know if they were going to confront the whole group or what," Bradley said. "I think they were out here listening," he said, pointing out the spot where he confronted the gunmen.

In describing the two men, Bradley said one wore a ski mask and the other didn't. The one with the mask held the gun, he said. According to Bradley, the one with the gun did all the talking, the other didn't say a word.

"All I thought about was what they were going to do," said Bradley.

What they did was rob Bradley of about $15 and then force him to lie down in a bathroom and count. "They didn't tell me what to count to, I just counted," he said.

While he was counting, Bradley said he looked under the door of the bathroom for any movement. When he saw none, he got up and told the others what had happened.

According to the Lemon Grove Sheriffs Department, no suspects have been apprehended.

$59,210 to City From Nov. Taxes

State Controller Ken Cory announced last week that Lemon Grove received $59,210 for the December apportionment of cigarette tax, highway users tax, and "in lieu" motor vehicle license fees.

The breakdown was $6,390 for cigarette tax, $22,770 for highway users tax, and $30,505 for motor vehicle license fees.

Unlocked Truck Yields $300

Raymond Carrol Phillips, who owns a coin-operated laundry at 9819 Campo rd., Casa de Oro, told sheriff's deputies on December 18 that he had parked his truck near the laundry leaving $300 in 3 sacks behind the front seat.

When he returned, the money was gone. He had left the truck unlocked and the keys inside.

A Royce 40 channel CB radio was taken from the auto of Michael J. Judge, an operating engineer who lives at 9027 Frederick st., Spring Valley.

The loss, amounting to $300, was suffered Thursday while he was in his residence.

Woman Strong-Armed

Louise Mary Allen, 28, a student, lost her purse with $25 in it in a strong-arm robbery near midnight Thursday. She told police that a black male, about 22 years of age, accosted her in the driveway of her residence and asked, "Do you know what time it is?" He then grabbed her purse and fled. She lives at 536 La Presa ave. in Spring Valley.

There's An Answer!

Too late to change

Q. I have a real bad problem. I just cannot snap out of my depression. It seems I am pretty good, then I go in a rut again. I lost my husband last year and still live in the same house he built for us. He loved his home, and I cannot bear to leave it. I talk to him every day and find some consolation in that. I guess I'll never get over losing him. I have always been more or less hypo—making mountains of mole hills—and at 80 years old it is too late to change now. Is there anything you can suggest for me beside psychotherapy? That is one thing I do not want.

A. Bear this in mind, and this is a fact: It is never too late to change. If a person has been having wrong attitudes, wrong thought processes, even for 80 years, that does not mean that these errors should continue to be compounded.

The loss of a husband is indeed a grievous sorrow. But it is a tough, hard fact that you must get over this loss if you expect to live with any degree of happiness. That is not easy, but it is possible with God's help.

Get your personality normalized. Give up your grief and get interested in something outside yourself. That is your one hope for peace of mind.

We have a booklet, YOU CAN HAVE A WONDERFUL LIFE, which has helped others with questions such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Public prayers are difficult

Q. I find it very difficult to pray out loud in public. I love the Lord and want so much to pour my heart out to Him, but the words just aren't there. I have always prayed silently to God and my prayers made me feel close to Him. I would like any advice you can give me.

A. You probably assume that you are required to use a traditional form of prayer language. That is not so. Simply talk to the Lord in plain language, telling what is on your mind. Ask that the other people present be blessed. Make it a simple request. And do not think about yourself. Instead, think about the others who are present when you pray. In this way you will be natural in your prayer and the others will like that. And we might add, God will like it too.

We have a booklet, TRY PRAYER POWER, which has helped others with questions such as yours, and a copy of it is on its ways to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Do I dare to stop hoping?

Q. Do I dare stop hoping and praying for my husband to come back? After 15 good years of marriage, which produced two children, my husband left us and obtained a divorce. I love him deeply and would like to have a chance to make a good home for the four of us. I just don't know how God feels about me constantly asking Him to bring my husband back to me. I do not feel God could have sanctioned such a thing as a breakup of a marriage and family. But yet, I'm afraid if the Devil has his hand in this, and if I give up trying, then I'm a guilty party in keeping our marriage from having a chance. Please help me to understand the right thing to do.

A. Certainly you can continue to hope and pray for your husband's return. Meanwhile you will be well advised to go on with your own life, guiding your children, and living normally without any feeling of guilt.

If your husband, now divorced, should return and you wish to remarry him, then you should give serious thought to overcoming any element of failure that you may have contributed to the relationship. Having done all that you can in a calm and sensible way, leave the matter in the hands of God and live with peace of mind.

Internal Revenue Service Looks at Church Income

Certain business income of a church or other religious organization may be taxable even if the church or church organization is otherwise exempt from federal income tax, according to a local Internal Revenue Service official.

Jerald M. Peterson, Chief of the Exempt Organization Division in the District IRS office, says churches must pay federal tax on income from business activities that are not related to the purpose for which their tax-exempt status has been recognized.

"The law broadly defines 'unrelated business income' as income that is earned on a regular basis from a trade or business not substantially related to the organization's tax-exempt purpose," explained Peterson.

"For example," he continued, "income from sources such as the sale of religious publications or the operation of a church school is considered related to the tax-exempt purpose of the church."

Peterson stressed that if an activity is not conducted regularly, the income produced is not taxable, even if the activity is unrelated to the organization's exempt purpose. Income derived from the operation of a sandwich stand by a church for one week at a county fair, for example, would not be considered taxable.

Some income-producing activities are exempt from tax even if they are in fact regularly operated as an unrelated business. Peterson cited the operation of a snack bar in a church school, primarily used by students and staff but also regularly patronized by the public as an example of this type of exception. The income a church receives from its students and staff members is not taxable since the snack bar is there for their convenience. On the other hand, income received from the public is taxable.

Churches receiving gross income of $1,000 or more from unrelated business must report that income on Form 990T, "Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return." Copies of this return and IRS Publication 1018, "Tax on Unrelated Business Income of Churches," are available at local IRS offices.

T.V. Personality To Speak At El Cajon Church

Jaqualyn Lynn Taylor, TV personality, lecturer and metaphysical teacher will speak at Christ Church Unity of El Cajon Sunday at 10 a.m.

Better known by her nickname Hope, Taylor began her professional career at the age of 5 as a child actress in motion pictures.

In 1951 she began a 25-year television career in Hollywood at KTTV-Channel 11 which included 10 years as the top-rated women's TV variety talk show hostess in San Diego, and women's news editor at the CBS affiliate in Sacramento.

The San Francisco Examiner honored Taylor as "TV Woman of the Year" for her television specials highlighting the talents and achievements of youth and the American way of life.

Taylor also has extensive credits in directing and producing religious programs for local radio and TV stations throughout California. Her story of her personal search for God as a small child is inspiring and uplifting.

SD CoC Directories May be Purchased

The 1978 San Diego Business Directory, a complete listing of members of the S.D. Chamber of Commerce, has been completed and is being distributed to U.S. embassies, trade centers and consular offices throughout the world.

The 192-page directory lists Chamber members alphabetically, and by employment size, type of business, standard industrial classification, and geographical location. There also are sections that list public officials, trade and professional organizations, and general information about San Diego County. Approximately 2,400 member firms are included in the book, which was published last week.

A color photograph of the Presidio and Serra Museum is featured on the directory's cover.

"These directories are a valuable tools as a buyer's guide," said Chamber President Richard G. Capen, Jr., "and we are pleased to be able to send them to embassies and trade officials around the world. They are useful additions to trade libraries and help to stimulate new trade for San Diego."

Each Chamber member receives a business directory without charge. Directories may be purchased by nonmembers at the Chamber office.

L.G. Church to Pray For Financial Needs

A Day of Prayer for the financial needs of the Skyline Wesleyan Church, 1345 Skyline dr., will be held Saturday, January 6 from 6 a.m. to 12 p.m.

A prayer schedule is placed in the church foyer for participants to sign up for the prayer session.

Social Security Update

Regulations pertaining to Social Security benefits are constantly being added and updated. In the future this column will offer information on what is new for the social security benefit recipient.

Changes in the social security system which are mandated by law become effective on January 1.

Changes include the financing provisions of the 1977 amendments to the Social Security Act enacted by the Congress in November, 1977, as well as new automatic adjustment established earlier by the Congress. The specific changes involve an increase in the amount of money a beneficiary can earn and still get benefits, increases in the tax rate and the amount of earnings subject to tax, and an increase in the quarterly earnings measure used to determine whether a person is insured for monthly benefits.

Under the new rules effective at the beginning in 1979 recipients under 6 will be able to earn $3,480 in 1979 without losing any benefits (up from $3,240 in 1978). People 6 to 72 will be able to earn $4,500 (up from $4,000).

People under 72 who earn agricultural contractors at their request when available. more than these amounts in 1979 may still get some social security, but benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 of earning above these "exempt amounts". The higher limits will provide additional benefits of about $300 million in 1979 to about 1.5 million people.

The $4,500 amount for persons 65 and older was contained in the 1977 amendments to the Social Security Act, while the $3,480 amount for those under age 65 is the result of an automatic increase formula in the law that ties higher earnings limits each year to increases in national wages.

1. The social security tax rate will increase from 6.05 to 6.13 percent for employees and employers. The tax rate for about 5 million self-employed workers remains unchanged at 8.1 percent.

2. The maximum amount of earnings that are taxable for social security and count toward benefits will increase from $17,700 to $22,900 in 1979.

The changes in the tax rates and base will mean that workers earning about $17,700 will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before. This will mean higher benefits for them and their families in the event of retirement, disability or death than would have been possible without the increase.

3. There will be an increase in the amount of earnings required for a 'quarter of coverage' — the measure used by social security to determine the amount of work a person needs before monthly benefits can be paid. In 1979, employees and self-employed people will earn one quarter of coverage for each $260 of covered earnings in a year. Four quarters will be credited for annual earnings of $1,040 or more. The amount of earnings needed to earn a quarter of coverage in 1978 is $250; four quarters, $1,000.

The higher amount for 1979 comes from the same formula in the law regulating to increases in average wage levels that is used to determine the higher earnings limit for people who work in retirement.

State Looks to Excess Water

The state water project is expected to deliver about 2.1 million acre-feet of water in 1979, project contractors were told last week.

In its first projection of project deliveries for this year, the Department of Water Resources said the project, based on December 1 data, will be able to deliver full contract entitlements plus "make up" water which was not delivered during the 1976-77 drought, even if the rest of this rainy season matches the driest year on record.

The department makes its delivery projections by using a "rule curve," a set of guidelines devised to determine how much water the project can deliver. The rule curve also sows that if 1979 runoff is in the critical category as it was in the drought years 1976 and 1977, no surplus water can be delivered in 1979. Surplus water is delivered primarily to

Sexuality Subject Of Grossmont Course

"The Psychology of Sex: the Sexual Experience" is a noncredit course which will give participants an effective overview of human sexuality. The course will be held from 7-10 p.m. on Thursdays, January 11 through February 22 in the Counseling Center, Room 115, Grossmont College.

In Uniform

Roger La Salle

FORT BENNING, Ga. — Pvt. Roger H. LaSalle Jr., whose parents live at 10605 Olvera rd., Spring Valley, recently completed 7 weeks of advanced individual training at Fort Benning.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualified him as a light weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

He was taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

LaSalle entered the Army in August 1978.

Benjamin Rogers

Navy Machinist's Mate First Class Benjamin A. Rogers, whose wife, Brenda, is the daughter of Jesse and Eva Casey of 4161 N. Cordoba, Spring Valley, recently participated in exercise "Varsity Lance" off the Southern California coast.

He is a crewmember aboard the submarine USS Drum, homeported in San Diego.

The 12-day exercise involved more than 20,000 personnel, 38 ships and 250 aircraft from U.S. Navy and Marine Corps squadrons. "Varsity Lance" began with advance in-port training by all units and continued with an at-sea warmup period. The assembled forces conducted sea control operations in preparation for amphibious landings at Camp Pendleton.

Rogers joined the Navy in January 1972.

This Week's RECIPE

Chocolate Supreme Pie Looks Difficult --- Really Isn't

1 package (6-serving size) chocolate flavor pudding and pie filling
2½ cups milk
1 baked 9-inch pie shell, cooled
1 cup thawed frozen whipped topping

Glamorous when it appears. Simple to prepare. Guests will think you labored long and hard to produce Chocolate Supreme Pie, but the elegant look and flavor of this superb dessert belie its simple ingredients and ease of preparation. It features one layer of rich. creamy chocolate flavor pudding and pie filling, topped with another layer of even creamier chocolate. The second layer provides contrast in color thanks to the addition of a non-dairy wripped topping. Additional topping is used as garnish for this chocolate lovers' dream dessert.

Prepare pie filling mix with 2½ cups milk as directed on a package for pie; cool 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Measure 1 cup; cover with wax paper or plastic wrap and chill thoroughly. Pour remaining pie filling into pie shell; chill. Blend whipped topping into measured pie filling. Spread over filling in pie shell. Chill about 3 hours. Garnish with additional whipped topping, if desired.

Regulations to Toughen On State Anti-redlining

Business and Transportation Secretary Alan Stein has announced proposed anti-redlining regulations to implement the Housing Financial Discrimination Act of 1977. Effective January, 1978, the Act was the first law in the nation to prohibit the practice of redlining by financial institutions.

The proposed regulations are intended to accomplish the Act's two primary purposes—to halt "redlining" and other discriminatory home lending practices and to expand lending in urban areas and neighborhoods traditionally denied conventional mortgage financing.

Describing the proposed regulations as "tough and comprehensive", Stein noted that the regulations have several important provisions, which would:

1. Prohibit mortgage lenders from considering the age and location of a home unless necessary to avoid making an unsound loan.

2. Directly prohibit the practice of "pre-screening" loan applications. (Pre-screening is the practice of discouraging potential loan applicants from applying because of such factors as race, color, creed, national origin, sex, or the age or location of the home.)

3. Prohibit the use of discriminatory underwriting policies or marketing programs.

4. Prohibit the use of discriminatory appraisals and provide guidelines on nondiscriminatory appraisal practices.

5. Require financial institutions to have available written underwriting criteria and to inform the public that everyone has the right to file a written loan application.

6. Require each financial institution to provide a detailed description of its marketing program to low loan volume areas within its effective lending territory.

The proposed regulations would apply to financial institutions making the vast majority of mortgage loans in California.

Establishing regulations is the first phase of the State's anti-redlining program. Directed by Carol Schatz, Special Assistant to the Secretary for Fair Lending, the program will next focus on informing consumers about their rights under anti-redlining laws and regulations and on enforcing fair lending policies.

Help Is Offered For Frozen Trees

Freezing temperatures in many areas of San Diego county recently damaged avocado, citrus, and other subtropical fruit trees. While limp and blackened leaves cannot be repaired, there are several things homeowners can do to hasten the recovery of their trees.

Don't prune citrus or avocado trees, cautions Vincent Lazaneo, University of California Farm Advisor, until the full extent of the damage has been determined. Leaf and shoot injury usually become visible in a few days but damage to twigs and small limbs may take a month to appear.

The extent of injury to severely damaged trees can not be determined for several months. Wait until new growth appears before removing suspected dead branches. Be patient; experience has shown that early pruned trees recover more slowly than trees pruned later.

Irrigate freeze damaged trees cautiously. When leaves are damaged or destroyed by cold temperature, the tree uses less water than normal until a new crop of leaves has developed. The soil should not be allowed to dry out, but water will not have to be applied as often until the trees recover.

Fertilizers are usually applied in the spring for citrus and avocado trees. Feeding trees any earlier may stimulate lush growth that could be damaged by later frosts. Severely damaged trees are not able to use as much fertilizer as healthy trees. Always water thoroughly when applying fertilizer.

Fruit exposed to freezing tmperatures may show damage later. Black areas may appear on avocado fruit stems,

Lumber Stolen

Lumber valued at $2,786 was taken from a Spring Valley building under construction in the 1000 block of Cuyamaca st., contractor Richard Vogt told sheriff's deputies Saturday.

Included in the loss were 2 waterhoses, he said.

Opera Auditions Schedule Set

Auditions for positions in the spring chorus of the San Diego Opera will be held January 4 and 6.

The spring season will include the world premiere of Gian Carlo Menotti's "Juan La Loca" with Beverly Sills.

Hollywood personality Charles Nelson Reilly will direct "La Travista."

Chorus members will sing for the Verdi Festival productions of "I Lombardi alla prima crociata," which will be a West Coast premiere as well as the first staging of this work in America in this century.

Both men and women singers are needed. Applicants must be over 18 years of age and operatic experience is not necessary.

Auditions will be held in room 103 of the Casa Del Prado in Balboa Park from 7-10 p.m.

An accompanist will be provided, and those singers interested in auditioning should bring their music with them.

To make an appointment to audition, contact Chorus Master Joseph De Rugeriis at the San Diego Opera office, 232-7636.

Yoga Added to P.E. Curriculum at S.C.

A yoga class has been added to the curriculum of the physical education department at Southwestern College. The class will be taught by Leone Leadley and is scheduled for Wednesday evening, 6:30 p.m.-9:20 p.m. in Room 1003.

Through the ancient and gentle art of yoga, students tune the physical body, and through deep relaxation learn to still and control the mental processes. Yoga is not a religion or a cult, but a way of life dedicated to health, happiness and longevity.

Spring semester classes begin January 17 with registration taking place January 8-11.

"Trouble in Mind" Is Theater Offering

The Southeast Community Theater, under the direction of guest director, Dr. Floyd Gaffney, professor of drama, UCSD, will present its winter production, "Trouble in Mind," by Alice Childress, at the Educational Cultural Complex (ECC), 4343 Ocean View blvd., on January 26, 27, 28 and February 2, 3, and 4, at 8 p.m.

Tickets are: general admission, $3; students, military and senior citizens, $1.50.

"Trouble in Mind," the title coming from a blues song of the same name, is a comedy-drama about trouble in the theater. It is in two acts, which take place during rehearsals in a Broadway theater, and contains a play-within-a-play. The play being rehearsed, "Chaos in Belleville," is about blacks and whites in the South in the 1950's. The cast of the play-within-a-play consists of two black actresses, two black actors, a white actor, actress, director, stage manager, and a doorman. What happens to all of them as they react to the play they are rehearsing and to each other is the substance of Ms. Childress' play.

The play was first presented at the Greenwich Mews Theater in New York City on November 4, 1955 and ran for 91 performances. It received the Obie Award for Best Original Play Off-Broadway for the 1955-56 season and was subsequently produced twice on the B.B.C. in October and November, 1964.

For ticket reservations call 263-7254, ext. 10 or 23.

Area Births

Three Spring Valley couples became parents of baby girls recently, Grossmont Hospital announced.

Andrea Leanne was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Walker, Michele Marlene was born to Mr. and Mrs. Conrad W. Lingenfelder, and Alysia Anne was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scott.

At Kaiser Hospital a baby boy, Matthew Allen, was born to Rick and Cindy Doll.

SD Creighton Club Sets Annual Party

The San Diego Area Creighton Club will hold its annual party Tuesday, January 16 at the Atlantis Restaurant.

Creighton guests will include the Rev. Matthew E. Creighton, S.J., university president, and Chuck Maxwell, alubni director. S.D. club president R. Jerry Holmberg (BSBA '58) is in charge of party arrangements.

A social hour is planned for 6:15 p.m., with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Alumni, parents, friends and their spouses are invited.

The S.D. Creighton club including 238 persons, is one of 60 such alumni chapters throughout the nation.

Creighton is a private Catholic university located in Omaha. Operated by the Jesuit Fathers, it has an enrollment of more than 5,000.

The university enrolls students in the colleges of arts and sciences and business administration, the graduate school and schools of nursing, medicine, law, pharmacy and dentistry.

S.D. Ballet Gets $15,000 Grant From Parker

The San Diego Ballet is a recipient of a $15,000 grant from the Parker Foundation. The grant award was based on the high quality of performances that the San Diego Ballet has brought to the community.

The Parker Foundation is a locally based non-profit foundation. It is one of the major philanthropic organizations in the San Diego area.

The grant is to be used for production costs of the 1978-79 season. This is the first time that the Parker Foundation has awarded a grant to a ballet company in San Diego.

Dino Di Donato, General Manager of the San Diego Ballet said: "I am delighted the Parker Foundation has recognized us with this grant at this time. It marks a turning point in the San Diego Ballet's future."

Death, Dying Is Subject of UCSD Newspaper Course

This winter UC San Diego Extension will present two important courses for the public on the subject of death and dying.

One is a home-study course by newspaper in which students will read a series of 15 weekly articles printed in the San Diego Union and written especially for the course by leading scholars.

The students will also read a specially-designed textbook, follow a study guide, and attend 3 discussion sessions on the UCSD campus Jan. 11, 20 and March 1. The first meeting will be held 719 p.m. Jan. 11 in room 2226, Applied Physics & Mathematics Bldg., on UCSD's Muir Campus. The course fee is $60 (not including the text) and the articles will begin appearing in the San Diego Union on Sunday, Jan. 21.

The 3 discussion sessions will be led by Robert Fulton, Ph..D.., professor of sociology and director of the Center for Death Education and Research at the University of Minnesota. Fulton is also the coordinator of the national "'Death and Dying" Course by newspaper.

The 2nd special program to be presented is a Jan. 19-20 symposium titled "Death & Dying: Challenge & Change." Scheduled for 7-10 p.m. Jan. 19 and 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Jan. 20, the symposium will be held in Room 107, Third Lecture Halls Bldg., on UCSD's Third College Campus. The fee is $35 and Fulton is the coordinator. Among the topics and speakers are:

"Death and Dying: A Course by Newspaper," with Paul Saltman, Ph.D., UCSD vice-chancellor for academic affairs; "Whose Life Is It? How Death Impacts on Everybody," with Doris Howell, M.D.. chairman and professor of the UCSD department of community medicine in the School of Medicine; "'Relations Between the Aged and the Young. Moral and Ethical Questions and Quandries," with Fulton; "The Concept of the Death System —Death as a Personal Event and a Public Phenomenon," with Robert Kastenbaum, Ph.D,. superintendent, Cushing Hospital, Boston, and a University of Massachusetts professor of psychology; and "The Tragic Phenomenon of Adolescent Suicide and the Plight of Those Left to Grieve" with Edwin S. Shneidman, Ph. D., director of the Laboratory for the Study of Life-Threatening Behavior and a UCLA professor of thanantology and psychiatry.

The afternoon session of the symposium includes workshops and panel discussions.

To enroll in the home-study Course by Newspaper, or the 2-meeting symposium on death and dying, call UCSD Exension at 452-3400.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

The suddenness of it rings a warning alarm in your memory computer bringing your thought process to an innerface judgment with past experiences.

"Where the hell has the year gone?" you ask yourself. "Just a few months ago we were welcoming 1978 into existence. Now, in just a couple of days, we'll have to wave it goodbye and warmup to a newer year.

It isn't good to make friends with years. You cheer them in with great promise, but before you know it, they go zipping along into the dim recesses of where ever old years belong.

It seems just like yesterday that we were all looking forward to the All-Star baseball game, the promise of playoff development from the Chargers and an exciting challenge from the Padres. Unfortunately, we were also looking at an empty Sports Arena where even minor league hockey apparently couldn't survive.

There was drama in local sports that would bring change to our lives. Both San Diego's major sports attractions changed direction in in mid-stride.

Alvin Dark, a nice man with stern ways, who placed total demand on the actors of his daily productions, was replaced by Roger Craig, a man as comfortable as an old pair of shoes, as chief steward of the Padre fortunes.

Roger did quite well and spirited his troops to a winning season, respect from his managing colleagues and hopeful promise for pennant contention in the year coming before us.

And that ain't bad for a freshman manager.

Yet it was almost outdone by the brash, friendly spirited new head coach of the San Diego Chargers. A fella named Don Coryell.

Tommy Prothro built a team capable of winning, but he couldn't seem to find the switch to turn em' on.

Being the man he is, Prothro stepped aside and Coryell was invited to try his magic on the slow-starting Chargers. It took a while, but as more and more of the Coryell offense found its way into the huddle, the stronger and more powerful the Chargers became.

After a last place first half, Coryell's cutups came within inches of earning a playoff berth, while posting their first winning season in a decade. And a playoff berth next year is a promise.

Our midwinter's fun was assured when Irv Levin swapped Boston for Buffalo and hustled the best of both westward to bring National Basketball Association action to San Diego.

The Clippers ain't flying yet, but they sure as hell got off the ground with a hard working front office behind Irv Kaze and championship quality on the firing line with Gene Shue directing battlement operations.

Elmer "Tig" Jonnet earned a "save" for hockey with his purchase of the San Diego "Hawks." Jonnet returned Ron Oakes to his friends, reached out to retain Ron Ingram and reached back to find Willie O'Ree to present a composite Gulls-Mariners, roster of fame to hockey faithful. And his minor league Hawks are surviving in a major league market.

Les Land worked harder for free than most men for fame and fortune to take the Holiday Bowl from Idea and Promise to wonderfully successful reality in less than one year's time. And that's impossible.

It all crowded into 1978. A full, richly rewarding sports experience complete with side highlights of sailing, skiing, over-the-line, power boats on the bay and San Diego State finally on the way.

It all happened so fast. It was right there in front of us, then zip, it's time to say goodbye. Excitement has turned to memory.

But it sure makes you wonder what 1979 has in store for us.

Chargers Look Good In '77-'78 Record Book

The 1978 National Football League season is at an end for the San Diego Chargers, but the team and the organization are optimistic that the end was only a beginning of great things.

The Chargers won 7 of their last 8 games to finish with a 9-7 record — their first winning season since 1969.

By going 7-1 in the second half of the 1978 season, the Chargers compiled a record for span matched only by Pittsburgh in the NFL.

In the last 3 games, all victories, 40-7 over Chicago, 37-10 over Seattle, and 45-24 over Houston, the Chargers amassed 1,379 yards in total offense, 68 first downs, and 16 touchdowns. Among other achievements:

—Quarterback Dan Fouts threw for 369 yards against Houston, tying the club record set by Tobin Rote against the New York Jets Nov. 2, 1963.

—Fouts's 83.2 pass rating placed him third in the NFL behind Dallas's Roger Staubach (84.9) and Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw (84.8).

—Fouts's pass rating is exceeded in Chargers history only by the 86.9 of Tobin Rote's in 1963.

—In the last three games, Fouts completed 59 of 97 passes (.608) for 917 yards and 9 touchdowns.

—Fouts was second in the AFC in touchdown passes (24) and fourth in the NFL, behind Bradshaw (28), Staubach (25), and Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton (25).

—Fouts was second in the AFC in passing yards (2,999) behind Seattle's Jim Zorn (3,283).

—Wide receiver John Jefferson was the leading rookie pass catcher in the NFL with 56 catches for 1,001 yards, and 13 touchdowns, the latter tying a league record set by Green Bay's Billy Towton in 1952.

—Jefferson became the first NFL rookie to gain at least 1,000 yards receiving since Harold Jackson of Philadelphia in 1969. Jackson gained 1,116 yards and scored 9 touchdowns on 65 catches.

—In the last 3 games Jefferson caught 17 passes for 370 yards, a 21.8-yard average, and 5 touchdowns.

—Jefferson was first in the NFL in touchdown catches and fourth in the NFL in yards.

—Rolf Benirschke finished the season with 9 successive field goals and was second in the NFL with an .818 percentage on 18 of 22 field goal attempts.

—The Chargers were first in the AFC with 54 quarterback sacks and third in the NFL behind Dallas (58) and Detroit (55).

—The Chargers were sixth in the NFL with 355 points.

—The Chargers were first in the NFL with 3,375 yards passing.

—The Chargers were fourth in the NFL with 5,471 yards total offense, setting a club record.

—San Diego was third in the AFC in total defense, allowing 4,559 yards.

—San Diego was third in the AFC in pass defense, allowing 2,351 yards.

—The Chargers finished the season with an 8-4 record under Don Coryell, who was appointed head coach Sept. 25. The victory over Houston was Coryell's fiftieth as a head coach in the NFL. His record in the regular season since 1973 is 50-31-2.

—The Chargers played five games that were sold out in San Diego Stadium, breaking the club record of four in 1973. Three games were sold out in time for the games to be televised locally. The Chargers had televised one sold out game locally prior to 1978—in 1976 versus Oakland.

—Actual attendance at eight home games during the regular season was 378,623, an average of 47,623, an increase of 3,648 a game over 1977 and an increase of 10,487 a game over 1976.

Fouts Stars In AFL Wrap-up

The head office of the American Football Conference of the National Football League in its annual Christmas-time wrap-up, reported on the San Diego team:

Coach Don Coryell, who replaced Tommy Prothro on September 25, had an 8-4 record. Chargers' only loss in last 8 games was 23-0 to Chiefs when QB Don Fouts was sidelined. Fouts (career high totals: 224 of 381 for 2,999 yards) threw 24 TDs, most by a San Diego passer since John Hadl tossed club-record 27 in 1968. WR John Jefferson (56 catches for 1,001 yards, 13 TDs) became 1st NFL rookie receiver to surpass 1,000 yards since Philadelphia's Harold Jackson had 1,116 on 65 receptions in 1969. Jefferson's 13 TDs tie Green Bay's Billy Howton (1952) for most TD catches by an NFL rookie. RB Lydell Mitchell (6,307 yards) finished season as NFL's No. 10 alltime leading rusher. Chargers defense topped AFC with club-record 55 QB sacks.

COP'er Bowl Officials

Honorary Coach Posts Given To Gilbert, Coryell

San Diego's two famous coaches, Don Coryell of the Chargers and Claude Gilbert of the Aztecs, have agreed to be honorary coaches for COP'er Bowl III between the San Diego police Heat and the Sheriff's County Mounties.

Coryell, contacted by Sheriff John Duffy, will be on the County Mounties bench performing his usual "cheerleader" role.

"Just having Coryell on our sideline should give us 2 extra touchdowns," Duffy said.

Chief Bill Kolender countered by getting Gilbert to join his Heat.

"Our guys will be wearing Coach Gilbert's S.D. Aztec uniform's, so he will feel right at home on our bench," Kolender warned.

The game will be held Saturday, January 13, in San Diego Stadium with all proceeds going to the Boys Clubs of San Diego county to fight juvenile delinquency. The Heat has won the first two COP'er Bowl games and in each instance Sheriff Duffy has had to push Chief Kolender down the center of San Diego at high noon in a wheelbarrow.

Tickets are $2 and available at the San Diego Police Officers Assn. near headquarters, at all sheriff's stations, the Deputy Sheriff's Assn., and San Diego Stadium.

Tom Weiskopf Signs For AWSDO Tourney

Tom Weiskopf, first winner of the Andy Williams San Diego Open back in 1968, has entered the 12th AWSDO on January 24-28 at Torrey Pines along with 2 other famous names and a tour newcomer.

Mark Hayes, 15th on the 1978 money list and the 1977 Tournament Players Championship winner, and Dave Stockton, a 2-time PGA titlist, are the other top players comfrom Westlake Village, added the PGA title in 1970 and 1976 mitted.

Weiskopf, now 36, won the Doral-Eastern Open in 1978 and finished 19th in earnings to remain in fifth place on the all-time money list with $1,664,157. He has been among the top 30 in annual earnings since 1966, his second year on tour, and has five times been in the top 10. The long-hitting Ohioan has 13 tour wins.

He is best remembered locally, however, for rolling in a 25-foot eagle putt on the dramatic final hole to win the 1968 AWSDO by a stroke over Al Geiberger, who sunk an 18 footer for a birdie.

Hayes, 25, was second in the Western and BC Opens and tied for second in the Kemper Open last year, finishing with $146,456. He has been in the top 20 in earnings for three years, having won the Byron Nelson and Pensocola Open events in 1976 before his prestigious TPD victory the next year.

Stockton, 37, a Californian to nine other tour wins. He has been in the exempt top 60 since 1967, making the first 20 six times. Last year the USC graduate finished 46th, his best performance a tie for second in the U. S. Open.

Also on the latest commitment list was the name of Bob Mann. Unknown to virtually everyone until he and Wayne Levi won the 1978 PGA National Team Championships at Disney World in what has been called a 1,000 to 1 upset, Mann gained a year's exemption from qualifying by this triumph in his first full year on tour.

Avon Net Tourneys Start January 1st

NEW YORK CITY — Avon Championship Tennis and The Avon Futures Circuit, heart and soul of the winter women's professional tour, commences tournament action January 1 with simultaneous openings in Washington, D.C. and Austin, Texas.

The joint opening under one sponsor banner, marking the first time since the inception of the women's tour 7 years ago that there has been a change of identity on the major tour, brings together virtually every- serious professional player in women's tennis for 12 weeks and 23 tournaments featuring nearly $2.2 million prize money.

David W. Mitchell, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Avon commented on the new program. "Our Futures involvement has helped to increase the depth of women's tennis and we can now provide increased opportunities for all professional women tennis players," Mr Mitchell said.

The $125,000 Avon Championships of Washington, D.C. initiates championship level play which will continue for 10 ensuring weeks before culminating.

Padres Home Opener on April 13; Kroc Keeps Ticket Prices Same

Christmas is still fresh in our minds and the New Year is yet to arrive, and here we are talking baseball schedules.

The San Diego Padres open the 1979 National League season with 14 straight games against the 3 teams that finished ahead of them in the Western Division in 1978.

The Padres begin the campaign with 4 games at Los Angeles against the defending National League Champion Los Angeles Dodgers starting Thursday afternoon, April 5. 3 games at San Francisco conclude the first road trip prior to the home opener Friday, April 13 vs. the Cincinnati Reds.

The opening home series against new Manager John McNamara's Reds includes a 6 p.m. Saturday night game and a Sunday doubleheader on April 15. The Giants conclude the first homestand of 1979 with a 3-game series climaxed by a 1 p.m. Business Special, April 19. The 7 games vs. the Reds and Giants are the Padres only home games during the month of April.

3 home doubleheaders are on the 1979 schedule. In addition to the April 15 twin-bill vs. the Reds the Padres will host Cincinnati for 2 games on August 12. A twi-night double headers vs. Atlanta Tuesday evening, May 29 also highlights the schedule.

5 mid-week day games spice the normal stretch of night games, 4 of them on Thursday afternoons. The Giants April 19, the Phillies May 10 and the Braves May 31 and June 28. There is one Tuesday afternoon contest, September 4 vs. San Francisco.

Other schedule highlights include a 4th of July night game against the Dodgers and the Padres first appearance in the annual Cooperstown Hall of Fame game on August 6.

The Padres wind up home competition Sunday, September 23 vs. the Dodgers and close the overall regular season one week later at San Francisco.

Despite the inflationary trend of the times Padre owner Ray Kroc decided not to raise ticket prices in 1979 thus keeping the Padres as one of the best sports bargains in the U.S. Perhaps indicative of this Padres season ticket sales are running approximately 3,000 ahead of 1978's record pace.

Padre season tickets, priced from $66 are on sale at the ticket office, Gate-E at San Diego Stadium.

2-Day Tee Tourney At Pala Mesa Greens

Pala Mesa Country Club and Scripps Memorial Hospital will participate jointly in a two-day golf tournament which will feature over 40 professional sports celebrities from the Southern California area.

The Pala Mesa Sports Invitational will be held Thursday, February 1, with the athletes competing in their own foursomes. On Friday, February 2, the sports stars will be joined by 120 amateurs in the Scripps Memorial Hospital Sports Invitational, with a best-ball format used to determine the winning foursome. The pro athletes' scores will be totaled for both days.

Bob Leonard, club manager at Pala Mesa, and Dr. Charles Webber of Scripps Memorial Hospital are the tournament chairmen.

Amateurs wishing to play with the sports celebrities in the Scripps Invitational may enter by calling 459-3364. The $100 entry fee will benefit Scripps Memorial Hospital and will cover greens fees, cart, prizes, lunch, cocktails and an awards banquet.

The event replaces the Vantage-TV Guide Sports Invitational which for the past four years attracted many of the top athletes in Southern California. The public is invited to watch at no cost.

Roadrunners Here Tonight For 7:30 Game

The Hawks, after blasting the league-leading Spokane Flyers 5-1 in a Christmas Night in a Pacific Hockey League game at the Sports Arena, exhibit their new-found playing abilty on the Phoenix Roadrunners.

The test comes tonight at 7:30 when the 2 teams face off at the Sports Arena.

The Hawks, now 8-9 are tied with Tucson for third place while Spokane rests atop the league with 15-6 standing followed by the Roadrunners, 13-7.

In Monday night's game, the venerable Willie O'Ree scored a goal to the delight of some 4,300 hockey fans.

The game also marked the return of Bill Goldthorpe who had been banned for 8 games after he entered a fight in progress on the ice. He had been sent to the showers earlier for misconduct and had returned to the stands and joined the ice fray in his street clothes.

Tickets are $3.50 and $5.50. Arena parking is free.

Aztecs vs. Stanford Penn vs. Iowa Kickoff 3rd Cabrillo Classic

Host San Diego State and undefeated Penn highlight the Third Annual Cabrillo Classic Basketball Tournament is scheduled for the San Diego Sports Arena on Friday and Saturday.

The Aztecs (4-2) will meet Stanford (3-3) in a 9 p.m. start in Friday's first round. The 7 p.m. opener matches Penn (4-0) against Iowa (4-2).

The Tournament is sponsored by the S.D. Jaycees, with proceeds going to the many community projects undertaken by that group, including Child Abuse Awareness, "Get Out and Vote," Outstanding Young Citizens Awards, and Bike Ride for Diabetes.

The first Classic was held in 1976 with Washington defeating LaSalle for the championship. San Diego State (which lost to LaSalle in the first round) bested Texas-El Paso in the consolation game.

Last year the Aztecs won the championship by defeating Fordham and upsetting Purdue. Kim Goetz, who scored 30 in the Purdue victory, was the Tournament M.V.P. He returns this year to lead the Aztecs, along with center Steve Malovic and captain Mike Dodd, both members of last year's All-Tournament Team.

KFMB Radio (76) will carry the Aztec games live with Ted Leitner calling the action. They will be on the air at 8:50 p.m. on Friday.

In final round action on Saturday, the losers meet at 7 p.m. with the championship game beginning at 9 p.m.

Aztec Women Resume Hoop Play Jan. 6

The San Diego State University Women's Basketball Team will take a Christmas break from competition, resuming play on January 6 against Biola College.

The Aztecs were full of surprises in the Cal Women's Basketball Tourney at the U. of California, December 14-16, finishing second out of 6 teams.

"It's getting tougher and tougher to beat San Diego State," Coach Richie Spears said after the big wins in the tourney. "We are developing some team pride."

SDSU upset third-seeded U. of California in the first round, 74-69, in overtime, to advance to the semifinals. And, on Friday, the Aztecs scored another upset in defeating second-seeded Texas Tech, 52-50. In the finals, the San Diegans lost to Long Beach State, 74-50.

Sophomore forward Mary Jackson leads the team in scoring with 10.4 points, followed by Gayle Suttles at 8.4 and Deb Hoistad, 8.3. Jackson averaged 14.3 points a game in the tourney.

The Aztecs are in practice over the holidays.

Futurity Stake Purse $237,000

LOS ALAMITOS—Many of the nation's premier juveniles, headed by Fresno Futurity champion and All-American Futurity runner-up Osage Juana, are expected to compete in Saturday's $237,000 Golden State Futurity at Los Alamitos during the first week of nighttime racing in the winter meet.

The 400 yard Futurity will highlight 6 nights of quarter horse action. Racing is conducted on a Monday night through Saturday night basis for the remainder of the winter meet which continues through February 13th. Post time each evening will be 7:45 p.m.

Senior Citizen Nights will be featured each Monday through Thursday evenings with grand stand admission only $1 for seniors 60 and over. Dollar Nights will be held each Wednesday when grandstand admission is $1 for all patrons.

The 10 fastest qualifiers from last week's trials earned starting berths in Saturday's rich Golden State Futurity with $101,317 first prize money on the line. Other top name Golden State Futurity nominees include Kiptys Charger, What a Woman, Six Te and Cut To Size.

Osage Juana carried the largest bankroll of any juvenile into the trials, having earned more than $232,000. The 2-year-old filly who is under the care of trainer Larry Sharp posted the fastest qualifying time in the $1 million All-American Futurity this summer and ran second to Moon Lark in the finals.

Track Stars to Trek To Sunkist Track Meet

A solid 6-member contingent from San Diego County will venture north in search of gold — gold medals — in the 20th annual Sunkist Indoor Invitational track meet Saturday night, January 20, in the L.A. Sports Arena.

The meet features the top preps in the state as well as the world's best men and women athletes — names like Kenya's Henry Rono, speedster Houtson McTear and resurging Mary Decker.

Morse's one-two punch of quarter-miler Tony Banks and Ron Roberts will be joined by Bonita Vista miler Fred Doane, Madison high jumper Frank Schiefer, Henry speedster Kipperr Bell and girl mile sensation Cheryl Flowers of Valhalla.

Banks, a 47.9 runner, meets state champion Bill Green of Cubberly (46.77) among others.

Roberts, the national Junior Olympic titlist and a 4:41.0 miler, joins ex-school-mate Doane, 4:13.8, in a challenge to state mile champ Paul Medvin of Los Angeles University (4:08.9). An added attraction will be the entry of Marcus Clarke of Australia (4:04), son of distance running great Ron Clarke.

Bell meets state 100 champ Michael Sanford of Pasadena while 6-9 high jumper Schiefer faces 7-footer Carsie Fairman of San Pedro.

Flowers (4:5.8) will be among the mile favorites including Linda Goen of North Bakersfield (4.52.0) and Sharon Hulse of Huntington Beach Edison.

L.M. Hec Hosts Tennis Tournament

A Masters Tennis Tournament for adults 45 and over will be held Saturday and Sunday, January 20-21 at the Helix High School tennis courts sponsored by the La Mesa rec department.

Entry blanks and a $7 entry fee for singles and $10 fee for doubles must be in by Friday, January 12.

Each division will be limited to 16 entries. Applicants will be notified by phone if the divisions close.

Applicants who sign up for more than one category may have to play four matches in one day. Players must be available to play at anytime on Saturday and Sunday.

If entrants have not received their notice of time of match they are to call 469-4128.

Clippers Play Eastern Foes; Home Tuesday

The Chicago Bulls may not be too happy about returning to the Sports Arena Tuesday night for a 7:05 game with the Clippers after the roughing they got at the hands of the San Diego team earlier this week.

The Clippers, last in NBA's Pacific Division, are 7½ games out of first place. But after beating the Sonics at Seattle 123-118 Monday night and the Bulls 115-109 Tuesday, they are properly glancing at the standings with an eye to moving up the ladder.

Before the team returns Tuesday to re-engage the Bulls, they will be in Cleveland tonight, Detroit Friday and Indianapolis Saturday.

In Tuesday's game, Lloyd Free scored 36 points. Randy Smith got 26.

Center City Overview Is Speech Subject Fri.

Gerald M. Trimble, executive vice president of the Centre City Development Corporation (CCDC), will address approximately 300 members of the downtown San Diego Rotary Club at noon Friday at the U.S. Grant Hotel.

Trimble will present an overview of the downtown redevelopment projects being implemented under the jurisdiction of CCDC.

Centre City Development Corporation (CCDC) is a nonporfit corporation established by the City of San Diego to implement and administer redevelopment projects in downtown San Diego's 1,200-acre entre City.

Worm Infestation Said Californias Worst in 5 Years

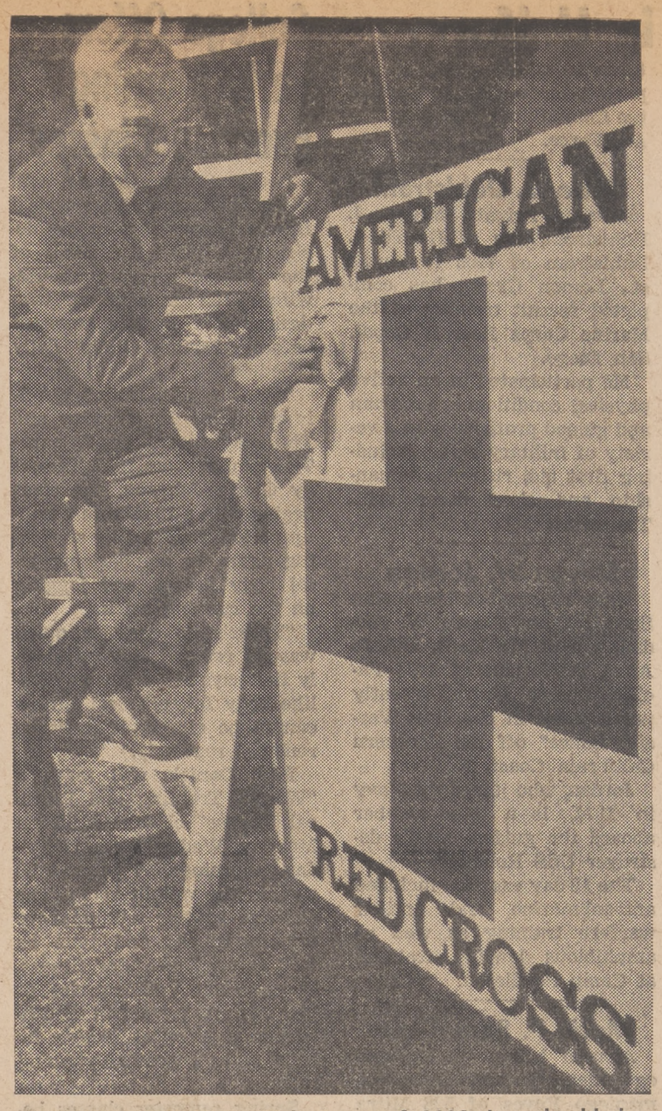
Confirmed screwworm cases continue to increase in California's worst infestation in 5 years.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), new confirmed cases in November totaled 32, bringing the year's count to 189. In 1977, the total on November 30 was 4, the total of new cases in November was 3.

California's worst screw worm year was 1973, when the November 30 totaled 224, the November total was 38.

Screwworms hatch from eggs deposited by adult flies in open wounds on warm-blooded animals. Repeated infestations if untreated can lead to the death of the host animal.

Dr. John B. Healy, area veterinarian-in-charge for USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Sacramento, lists the 1978 cases reported by county: San Diego 82, Riverside 42, Fresno 19, Imperial 11, San Luis Obispo 10, Madera 7, Merced, San Bernardino, and Stanislaus 3 each, Tulare 2, Los Angeles, Mariposa, and San Joaquin 1 each, plus four of unknown origin.



FINISHING TOUCH — Dick Cupp, of 9902 Jamacha blvd., Spring Valley, chairman of the American Red Cross' South Bay branch, polishes of the Red Cross emblem, a part of the UNITED WAY/CHAD "Community Squares" tower going up Harbor Island tarffic circle near San Diego International Airport.
The structure, a new approach to the traditional thermometer used to record campaign progress, has been growing week by week as the campaign moves toward its goal of $10,167,-834.
When completed, the tower, built entirely with contributed labor and materials, will stand as a 40-foot high salute to the labor unions, health and human care agencies, Pacesetter firms and the various communities of San Diego County which have supported the annual appeal.

'Y' Child-Rearing Classes Stresses Discipline, Skill

A new 6-week course, designed to help parents accentuate the positive in child rearing, will be offered at the Davis Family YMCA, 8881 Dallas st. in La Mesa, starting Thursday, January 25, at 7 p.m. The class will meet every Thursday evening for 6 weeks from 7-10 p.m.

The course, called "Positive Parenting," uses lectures, group discussions, demonstrations and role-playing exercises to train parents in the skills of effective discipline and open communication with their children.

Parents who enroll in the course will learn to avoid the exteremes of "authoritarian" and "permissive" methods and to substitute meaningful interactions with their children.

Techniques such as "effective listening" and "productive problem solving" are stressed, enabling parents to gain insight into their children's problems and to help children grow into responsible, responsive and caring adults.

The program, which was developed by the National Family Communication Skills Center, a project of the National Board of YMCA's, was begun in California and is spreading rapidly across the country. "Positive Parenting" will be taught by Marcia Ford, Davis YMCA Program Director, and Jeffrey Lille, M.S.W., Davis Associate Program Director. To obtain fee schedule or to register for the program, call 464-1323.

SDGE Kills Plans For New Generator

San Diego Gas & Electric has cancelled plans to repower an oil-fired unit at Silver Gate, a generating station in South San Diego.

The company said it is withdrawing its application to the California Public Utilities Commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity —one of the many governmental approvals required.

Repowering would have increased the generating unit's capacity from 64 to 162 megawatts.

"Essentially, the construction of an oil-fired base-leaded power plant is in conflict with emerging federal policies relating to both the use of oil to generate electricity and the burning of that oil in highly-populated urban areas," said R. E. Morris, SDG&E's president.

A base-loaded power plant is one that operates nearly all of the time to meet basic requirements of customers, compared to peaking units, which are used to serve customers during periods of high demand.

The company said that without the Silver Gate repowering project, the power supply situation is actually improved in the early 1980's, because repower would require taking the unit out of service for approximately 2 years.

SDG&E said that the peak loads experienced last summer and this month exceeded forecasts. Also, with the growth in the number of customers continuing at an unprecedented high rate, the company said it would be uneasy about taking the unit out of service.

"With the purchased-power contract recently negotiated with Tucson Gas & Electric and the agreement between SDG&E and Arizona Public Service to construct a major transmission line interconnecting the two systems, we should be able to meet the basic needs of our customers," Morris said.

Morris said that the interconnection agreement signed last week with the Comision Federal de Electricidad-Baja California Norte also will strengthen the reliability of supply during emergencies and could well lead to the purchase of additional surplus power from Mexico.

In its order resulting from a study of SDG&E's resource plant last spring, the PUC encouraged and directed the company to pursue the concept of the eastern interconnection (with APS), as well as the purchased-power contracts with utilities to the east and Mexico.

Senator Proposes Special District Tax Assessments

A bill which would allow for assessments for improvement districts denied by the passage of Prop. 13, has been introduced into the state legislature by Senate Pres. ProTem James Mills.

Mills said the bill will provide pay-as-you-go financing of about $1 billion in local redevelopment bonds facing possible default because of Prop. 13.

The bill is aimed at pre-Jarvis tax increment bonds which were implemented without voter approval. Some taxpayers were surprised this year when the improvement bonds they had voted for were not decreased with the rest of their property taxes. Although those cannot be lowered, any bonds not voted by the public are eliminated by Prop. 13.

Mills added that the need for an urgency bill results from indications that the state's ability to help local government will decrease during the next 2 years.

IRS to Scrutinize Partnership Returns

The federal tax returns of partnerships, particularly those showing losses exceeding $2,000, are coming under closer scrutiny, the Internal Revenue Service announced.

The tax collection agency said that beginning with partnership returns filed during fiscal 1978 (October 1, 1977-September 30, 1978) IRS will increase efforts to determine the tax potential of these kinds of returns.

According to William H. Connett, IRS District Director for Southern California, approximately 30 percent of partnership returns showing losses exceeding $2,000 will be examined. Connett said that, in the past, partnership returns have not been subject to the same examination emphasis as corporate or individual returns.

Connett added that the increased activity in the partnership area is part of the IRS' program to detect questionable tax shelters.

Included in this category are losses from any partnership, syndicate, group, pool, or any other venture which is not a trust, estate or coporation for federal tax purposes.

State Revenue, Costs Up in First 5 Months

State General Fund revenues for the first five months of 1978-79 fiscal year are almost $870 million ahead of the same period in 1977-78, while government cost expenditures are up almost $2.855 billion, State Controller Kenneth Cory reported.

Cory, in his monthly report of General Fund cash receipts and expenditures, said that total revenues for the 5 months ended November 30 were almost $5.710 billion. Government cost expenditures exceeded $7.667 billion which included over $2 billion of surplus funds paid or placed in an emergency loan fund to help schools and local government cope with property tax losses under Proposition 13.

"Without the Proposition 13 bail-out the cash revenues and expenditures would be running almost even," Cory said.

Narcotics Abuse Aid Ends Today

The county's methadone program came to an end today after months of controversy between the Board of Supervisors and clients of the Narcotics Abuse Treatment Program.

The NATP was operated by the Teledyne Economic Development Company but it had declined to extend its contract to the January 5 deadline set by the board.

Teledyne had informed the board it would terminate the program December 8 but the Board of Supervisors obtained a Superior Court order which directed Teledyne to continue the program until today at 9 a.m.

Clients had the option of either voluntary detoxification before today or a transfer to another program.

Knowing About Your Taxes Can Save Many Tax Dollars

(This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the Internal Revenue Service. The column answers questions frequently asked by Southern California taxpayers.)

Many Southern California taxpayers agree that the hardest part of doing an income tax return in gathering all the records, receipts, and other documentation needed to accurately complete the form.

Because of various changes in the tax laws, it's important for taxpayers to begin gathering their records now, the Internal Revenue Service advises. Taxpayers are required by law to keep records that will enable them to prepare complete and accurate tax returns.

Records are especially important for taxpayers who itemize their deductions. The IRS suggests that taxpayers sort their records supporting itemized deductions into categories according to corresponding lines on Schedule A of the Form 1040. The records should then reflect amounts spent in each area and can serve as a reminder of expenses that may otherwise be overlooked.

If any records are missing, taxpayers who organize their materials now still have time to locate them or request copies from the appropriate sources.

Taxpayers who wish to make contributions to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) should assemble their records as soon as possible to determine their income and compute the amount they may deposit in their plan.

Taxpayers who sold capital assets during the year, such as stocks or real property, should locate records idicating the date and price of the purchase. The original purchase price is used to calculate the amount of gain.

Exhibits Planned At La Mesa Gallery

Watercolorist Bud Shackelford and San Diego artist Hilda Inch will be featured in two seperate exhibits early next month, Foothills Art Association announced this week.

Shackelford will give a demonstration of his approach to painting Thursday, January 4th at 7:35 p.m. at the La Mesa Fine Arts Center Gallery. The Gallery is located at 8053 University ave., next to the La Mesa Public Library.

Inch's work will be on display throughout the month of January at the Gallery,

UCSD Med Center Attempts To 'Hold the Line' on Costs

Meeting health care needs while holding the line on health care costs, and the continuing effort to assure quality patient care, loom large in planning for 1979 at the University of California Medical Center, San Diego.

Vincent Wayne, deputy director, Hospital and Clinics, foresees tighter government controls and "quite possibly, limitation of prices and costs. 1979 will bring an accelerated challenge for maintaining a desired level of health care support while at the same time reducing the rate of increase in the cost of that care."

Dr. John F. Alksne, chairman of the UCSD Medical Center's Executive Committee and head of the Division of Neurosurgery, anticipates much discussion in 1979 of regionalization of specialized care and modalities involving complex technology. "In the regional approach, one or two hospitals in a city will do cardiac surgery, for instance. Radiation therapy and computer topography would be performed in a limited number of hospitals. Highly specialized care, such as the Burns Unit at this hospital which serves two counties, would be the most dramatic example of regionalization."

Dr. Alksne also foresees increased awareness by faculty physicians at this University of California facility of the need to interact with legislators and government control agencies. "We can't just exist in the ivory tower, be good in our work, and expect others to understand what we are trying to do," he said.

An innovation in 1979 will be the incorporation of patient teaching requirements into the standard care plans. These will cover teaching the patient what he should know about his care, his disease, his diet requirements, medication and —importantly— early recognition of symptoms that call for attention, Hunter said.

Phase of CETA Project Finished By S.D. Ballet

The San Diego Ballet Company has completed the first phase of their special CETA "Unfamiliar Audiences" Project by presenting fifteen lecture/demonstrations throughout San Diego County.

Audiences at the lecture/demonstrations ranged from two hundred at Muir Alternative to over 1,000 at Walker Elementary in Mira Mesa.

Under the project the San Diego Ballet Company received approximately $112,000 to promote ballet to "Unfamiliar Audiences" throughout the county.

During January the dancers will travel to schools such as Mountain Empire Unified and Chula Vista Elementary. Bookings are still available. Interested groups should call Carmen Rodriquez, Public Relations at 239-4141.

The lecture/demonstrations consist of a narrative history of ballet, warm-up exercise demonstration, including a discussion on what it takes to dance ballet and actual excerpts from the ballet's regular season, such as "The Nutcracker."

Rabies Clinics Set for Area

The County Veterinary Association has announced that its annual rabies vaccination clinics are scheduled for January and February of 1979. 80 clinics will be held at 58 diferent locations throughout the city and county of San Diego.

The clinics, which are sponsored by the San Diego Veterinary Medical Association, are staffed by veterinarians who dedicate their time to the program.

In order to have a dog vaccinated, it must be over 4 months old, be on a leash and under control by the time of vaccination. The cost of vaccination is $2.00.

In Lemon Grove, the clinic will be held on January 17 between 7-9 p.m. at San Altos School, 1750 Madera st. In Spring Valley, the clinic will be held January 9 between 7-9 p.m. at Casa de Oro Elementary School at the corner of Agua Dulce and Ramona dr.

'Sister George' Opens Season at 2nd Ave. Theatre

The Women's Theatre Ensemble opens its 1979 season on January 17th with "The Killing of Sister George" by Frank Marcus. This production, directed by Will Simpson and designed by Bob Earl, marks the opening of the new Second Avenue Theatre in the Community Arts Complex, 857 2nd ave., downtown San Diego.

The cast includes Priscilla Allen (in the title role), Darla Cash, Ina Felser and Kit Goldman. "The Killing of Sister George" is a powerful and witty drama centering around the demise of a British soap opera character and the effect it has on the lives and relationships of four unusual women. The play had its debut in London, moved to Broadway and was made into a highly acclaimed film.

The show opens January 17 and will run Wednesday thru Saturday nights through February 3. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Admission is $3.75; $3 for seniors and students. Reservations can be made by calling 233-0141 or 272-9819.

Owners of Small Businesses Echo Predictions of Banks

A California Chamber of Commerce year-end survey of small business owners in the state reveals some interesting correlations between the forecasts of trend-watching economists and the intuitive opinions of small business people.

Just how accurate are small business owners in monitoring the pulse of business activity? Without the benefit of sophisticated research departments and statistical studies that forecasters use to analyze the economy, survey respondents were close to the mark on major trends in 1978 and the 1979 forecasts for California by such prestigious economists as those with the Economics Department of Security Pacific National Bank and United California Bank's Research & Planning Division.

Most significantly, 72.6 per cent of the survey respondents said 1978 was a good year for business. UCB's 1979 forecast labeled 1978 a "boom" year for the state, citing a "recovery in agriculture, a boom in tourism due to reduced air fares, strong population growth, a turn-around in aerospace, and significant expansion of both existing and new industry." Security Pacific's September "Quarterly Economic Report" said California will "outperform the nation by most measures of economic activity in 1978.

Both forecasts indicate a slackening in growth for 1979. Surevys returned echoed that sentiment when 65.9 per cent said business next year would be worse or about the same.

The survey also revealed a deep-seated cynicism among small business owners about the government's implementation and acceptance of Proposition 13. Sixty-five per cent indicated they saw no reduction in government bureaucracy and costs after the ballot proposition passed in June. Some 76.2 per cent believe that it is "government as usual" in Sacramento and city halls throughout the state.

CHP Tests New Cars

The California Highway Patrol has selected Ford Fairmont sedans, Cherolet Malibu sedans, Chevrolet Z-28 Camaro coupes and Dodge Aspin station wagons for special testing in a program to develop plans for future CHP vehicles, Commissioner Glen Craig has announced.

Craig said 12 of each model will be obtained by January and tested by offices at Redding, Bakersfield, West Los Angeles and El Centro.

The test program will evaluate the performance and operating chacteristics of standard-sized vehicles equipped with mid-sized engines as well as evaluate the use of specific single purpose vehicles.

The commissioner said, "Historically, the CHP has used high-performance, high-speed, multi-purpose vehicles in the performance of its functions and responsibilities on the highways of the state."

He said automobile manufacturers plan to discontinue making the kind and size of vehicles that serve as multi-purpose patrol cars. Federal mandates for cars with higher gasoline mileage ratings have resulted in smaller engines as well as smaller vehicle sizes.

In planning for the future, it is necessary for the CHP to determine how it can equip smaller vehicles with all the necessary items, including radios, shotguns, fire extinguishers and emergency medical equipment.

Craig said if it is determined that future cars with mid-sized engines will not have adequate capabilities to meet departmental requirements, other possibilities will have to be explored.

'Giselle' Set to Open At S.D. Civic Theatre

San Diego Ballet's critically acclaimed production of "GISELLE" will open at the Civic Theatre, February 16 and 17 starring Teresa Bacall in the title role that helped establish her as one of Europe's prima ballerinas.

American Ballet Theatre cancelled its San Diego appearance on these dates in February which allowed the San Diego Ballet to move into the Civic Theatre. "We are, of course, disappointed that American Ballet Theatre will not be able to appear here this winter," commented Keith J. Martin, Director and lead danseur of the San Diego Ballet.

According to Dino Di Donato, General Manager of the Ballet, those attending the production of "The Nutcracker" will have the opportunity to order their tickets first and receive special discount prices on "Giselle."

CSE Placements Drop

California's State Employment offices in San Diego County reported a total of 2,835 job placements in November.

The total is 13 percent less than the October placement of 3,261 but it was almost 4 percent higher than the number placed in November 1977 (2,735). The over-the-month decrease was attributed to seasonal factors by EDD labor analysts.

In the fiscal year that ended in September, EDD made 39,542 placements, compared with 36,695 in the same 12-month period of 1976-1977 — an increase of almost 8 percent.

The corresponding figure for October through September 1975-76 was 28,638 — an increase of 38 percent for the two-year period.

College Offers Early Morning Exercise Classes

Southwestern College will offer 2 early morning physical fitness classes this spring designed to meet the needs of the businesswoman, housewife, golfer or secretary who desires a 45-minute workout before starting their daily schedule.

"Fitness for Health," 19A-B. is scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday mornings 7 a.m.-7:45 a m. in room 1003. Taught by Gloria Johnson, the class begins with a 10-minute warm-up period, followed by stretching exercises emphasizing total body fitness, and jogging on the running track.

"There's no easy or quick way to get and stay physically fit," says Ms. Johnson. "Unlike body fat, physical fitness cannot be stored—it must be renewed regularly."

Paul Daniels will teach a "Weight Training and Physical Fitness" class, PE 53, on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, 7 a.m.-7:50 a.m. in the weight room. The exercise routine will improve muscle fitness and tone as well as cardiovascular fitness. The student will exercise at his own pace using Southwestern's physical fitness facility and all weather running track.

Spring semester classes begin January 17 with registration starting January 8. Applications for admission to the college are now being accepted at the Admissions Office.

State Park Group Camp Reservations Now Open

Group camp reservations will be available for spring and summer use, with beginning dates ranging from March 1 to mid-June, at Calaveras Big Trees State Park, Caswell Memorial State Park, D. L. Bliss State Park, Humboldt Redwoods State Park, Malakoff Diggins State Historic Park, Millerton Lake State Recreation Area, Patrick's Point State Park, and Sugar Pine Point State Park.

Group camps may be reserved during the winter at Pichacho State Recreation Area (September 29 through mid-June) and at Mount Diablo State Park (October 1 through April 30).

The maximum length of time that may be reserved at a group camp is 7 days.

Rates, group camp facilities, and opening dates may be obtained from the parks; from the State Department of Parks and Rec., P.O. Box 2390, Sacramento, CA 95811; or from any Ticketron Office. Group Camp Reservation requests may be obtained from any of these places and may be mailed with the fee to Ticketron, P.O. Box 26430, San Francisco, CA 94126.

Reservations may be made up to 13 weeks in advance and processed on the first day of the 12-week Advanced Reservation Period.

Faster reservation service may be obtained by applying in person to a ticket outlet operated for the State by Ticketron in San Diego area (714) 565-9947.

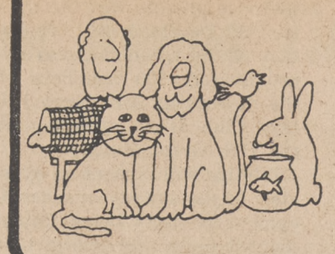
YOU AND YOUR PET



Foot Care for Your Pet

One way to help your pet put the "best foot forward" is to spend a few minutes each month examining its feet. Cats and dogs especially need checking for three reasons: nails may need trimming; cuts or other injuries may need treatment; and foreign objects lodged in the paws may need to be removed. Pets can best be examined after a play period when they are tired and relaxed or during a regular grooming session.

A dog's nails are the proper length when they barely touch the floor when the dog stands squarely on all four feet. Longer nails dragging along the ground put pressure on the toes and joint above the paw, forcing the dog to walk flat-footed. The nails themselves become brittle, and may split and crack when too long.

Most dogs that live indoors will need their nails trimmed about once a month. You can do the job yourself or ask your veterinarian for assistance. For best results at home, use clippers designed for pet use. Ordinary scissors do not have the leverage necessary for a clean cut through the hard nail surface. Buy clippers that fit comfortably in your hand and have the salesperson explain their use.

Once you begin to trim the dog's nails, don't let the pet squirm away; this will only encourage further resistance. Your aim is to trim the hard crust of the nail just beyond the quick, which is the live pink flesh within the nail. You may be able to see the pink blood vessel centered in the quick with the aid of a bright light held behind the nail. Some dogs also have an extra toe, called a dewclaw, attached to the side of the leg several inches above the paw. The nail on this toe must also be clipped. If your pet's feet have been long neglected, it might be better to let your veterinarian do the first trimming.

It is harder to determine if a cat's claws need trimming, as they retract into sheaths when not in use. Generally the cat maintains its claws at a comfortable length by sharpening (and thus shortening) them on anything handy, usually the furniture.

Some cat owners prefer to declaw their cats rather than fight to trim the nails. Considerable debate surrounds this procedure. Many veterinarians acknowledge that surgical removal of the cat's front claws are necessary if certain cats are to live indoors. Declawing is performed under anesthesia on cats three or four months of age or older. The claws and supporting tissues are completely removed and normally never grow back again. The cat can still defend itself with the teeth and claws on the back feet. There appear to be no psychological effects; declawed cats still flex their toes and appear to "knead" carpets in a contented fashion.

There are veterinarians who discourage removal of the cat's defense mechanism, especially for cats that spend a great deal of time outdoors. They recommend behavior modification—a loud noise or some water sprinkled on the cat when it claws the wrong objects. If your cat persistently scratches furniture or rugs, discuss the situation with your own veterinarian.

Even if your pet never needs its nails clipped, there are other reasons to examine its feet. You should remove the occasional seeds, thorns and debris that lodge between the toes to irritate the skin. Check especially those spots where your pet repeatedly licks and bites the fur. If there's nothing to be seen, perhaps your veterinarian can identify a fungus infection, embedded glass or wooden splinter, or abscessed bite.

Sometiems pets need help in cleaning their feet. Animals walking across newly paved roads in summer rapidly accumulate a ball of tar and dirt on each foot. Work quickly with a kerosene-soaked rag to remove the tar and rinse thoroughly with soapy water to remove the kerosene, since both kerosene and tar are poisonous compounds that can cause illness in a pet.

Japanese Beetles Control

Combined effort by county, state and federal agricultural personnel during the summer's Japanese Beetle control season, brought a decrease in the number of beetles intercepted in 1978, it was reported by the S.D. County Agricultural Commission.

7 beetles were found in San Diego traps. 205 were found in airplanes in 1977. Only 37 were found in 1978 even though inspection activity was increased.

The beetle, which infests 24 eastern states is a serious threat to the more than $9.8 billion agricultural industry of California. In order to keep the insect from becoming established in California, County and State inspectors checked incoming airplane flights from infested eastern states during the months when the insects were swarming.

They also inspected traps containing an attractant lure, County-wide. There were close to 100 such traps within one and a half miles of Lindbergh Field. Since June of this year, four male and three female Japanese Beetles were found in traps in the San Diego area. Visual inspection was conducted in a one-mile radius of each find.

On the East Coast, the U.S. Department of Agriculture monitored beetle counts at airports and conducted spray programs when the count reached hazardous levels. The material used was D-phenothrin, a federally approved insecticide.

These efforts were rewarded, as the number of beetles intercepted during the 1978 season decreased from the number found during the 1977 season. In 1977, trapping and airplane inspection yielded 39 live and 166 dead beetles. In 1978 only 8 live and 29 dead beetles were found, even though inspection activity was increased. A total of 1,757 aircraft were inspected out of a possible 2,728.

California produced 40 per cent of the fruit and vegetables in the United States. State agricultural officials note that if Japanese Beetles were to become established in California, they could do as much as $60 million in damage to the agricultural industry and another $60 million to the State's parks and shrubs.

A native of Buffalo, New York and an alumnus of San Diego State University, he joined the bank as an appraisal trainee in 1958.

ORV Regulations Enforced in Cleveland Forest

A San Diego man was sentenced to one year probation and fined $50 for riding his 3-wheel ORV in Pine Creek, an undesignated area of the Descanso District of the Cleveland National Park.

The area, near Pine Valley, is well-signed and barriers remind drivers to stay on the road, according to Fritz deHoll, supervisor of the Cleveland Forest.

The area is popular since Pine Creek affords the public a back-country route to the Laguna Mountains.

The Pine Creek area is accessible to the public, however, the Cleveland Forest road plan designates that it may be used only by street-legal vehicles and they must be kept on the main road.

There are roads designated for non-street legal vehicles and others for off-road vehicles, deHoll said.

Those planning to visit Cleveland should call ahead or stop by a ranger station for correct ORV regulations.

In San Diego the number is 293-5050.

L.G. Homes Increase by 17.9 Percent

The value of homes in Lemon Grove was up 17.9 percent this year according to a recently released report. Over a 3-year period the gain was 80.6 percent.

Housing throughout San Diego county continues to spiral raising the price for single-family units to $87,800 in October.

The highest rise was in Del Mar with a 40 percent increase.

The average price of a home in San Diego is expected to increase surpassing $90,000 by the end of the year. Economists are forecasting an average price of $98,600 by April.

Language School Opens

San Diego's first English Language Services Language Center, one of twenty-one such centers throughout the United States, which teach English to incoming college age international students, businessmen and professionals, opened Tuesday. The new Center is located at 630 Ash street in San Diego.

According to Stewart Morris, Director of the San Diego Center, the new facility is designed to help fulfill the needs of the large number of international students in San Diego who need to learn English.

"International students are coming to San Diego in increasing numbers to enroll in the area's many colleges and universities," Stewart said. "There are now over 35,000 international students in California alone, the largest number of any state in the United States."

"In order for these students to be accepted by an American college or university they must learn to read and write English proficiently."

The program is divided into nine levels with a level for each student's needs. Students are not fully prepared for university level study in English until they have completed the highest level.

The ELS program includes weekend excursion and social activities

94° to maintain a 45-55 mph traffic flow during the morning hours.

Paul Reynolds, assistant superintendent of LG school district, resigned. Reynolds had been a top executive with the district for 30 years.

Ground breaking ceremonies were held for the Mt. Miguel High swimming pool.

JUNE

James Butler was named to the $21,000 a year post of L.G. planning director.

Prop. 13 won in a state wide election and local government was taking a close look at budgets. The school board eliminated summer school, school bus service and invoked other cuts to keep within a budget of $5.9 million. An interim budget of $1,449,067 was passed by the L.G. City council.

A petition bearing 50 signatures protesting control barriers in the business district on Broadway between Kempf and Imperial was presented to the Chamber of Commerce.

JULY

Happy Birthday Lemon Grove — one year old.

The staff of the $6.5 million Cuyamaca College was on campus for the first time preparing for August registration.

The L.G. welcome sign came under heavy criticism as being too small and hidden to be seen.

Popular Sheriff's deputy patrolman David Pugh was reassigned to the central civil bureau downtown after 7½ years in L.G.

AUGUST

One of L.G.'s oldest residents, William West, died at 103 years. West moved to LG in 1914 and bought a chicken farm. Later he turned to raising lemons.

Arsonists caused $10,000 damage to the LG Masonic temple. The fire had been set following a burglary attempt according to police.

Restaurateur Vito Sinagusa of Leone's Restaurant was out of work 2 days suffering from a wrenched back he sutained while helping the coast guard rescue 6 children from his sinking cabin cruiser in Mission Bay.

Cuyamaca College opened its doors to its first batch of students.

SEPTEMBER

Graffiti became the target of the LG Chamber of Commerce in a week-long clean-up campaign. Weed abatement and litter pick-up was included.

4 local parks and a community center were transferred to the city by the Board of Supervisors.

The 23rd annual Kid's Day Parade was sponsored by the Kiwanis.

The weather made the news again. This time it was hot and dry — with the temperature reaching 107 degrees on Sept. 24.

OCTOBER

The LG Kiwanis held their 24th annual Apple Days to benefit local youth and senior citizen programs.

Skateboarding was banned in the downtown business section. But other traffic concerns were more complex as a member of the Auto Club invited to study the problem showed that traffic accidents along Broadway between Kempf and Imperial had been considerably reduced with the installation of parallel parking control curbs.

City Council was later told by Auto Club investigators that traffic circulation on Broadway would have to be improved, that there was sufficient parking spaces but that concern should be shown for acquiring public parking in areas south of Broadway.

City first major road repair project — $195,000 for 27 separate segments — the largest of which was on Washington, Palm to Vernier.

A "pool-a-thon" was held to raise money for the Mt. Miguel pool fund. Sponsors paid $1 per lap to students, teachers, parents to raise $10,000 for the $364,000 pool.

Skateboard riding was banned on sidewalks and streets in the downtown business section.

NOVEMBER

Lemon Grove VFW was awarded a community activities National Award of Excellence by the National VFW for supervising monthly teen dance parties at the local post.

For a while it looked like the lights were going out in Lemon Grove. But the council and local citizenry decided to continue the funding of the lighting distict until June when other funding alternatives would be discussed.

Lemon Grove fatties pledged to "Get The Fat Out of Lemon Grove". Several city employees who felt they need to lose weight got sponsors at 10 cents a pound. Money will go to the beautification of Lemon Grove. Weigh-ins were held at City Hall every Monday at 9 a.m.

A "Circle of Gold" lost its glitter to area residents who were bilked in a chain letter scheme which promised investors $100,000 for only $100.

Safety and recreation to priority as the LG city council began the task of spending $204,000 due the city before July 1.

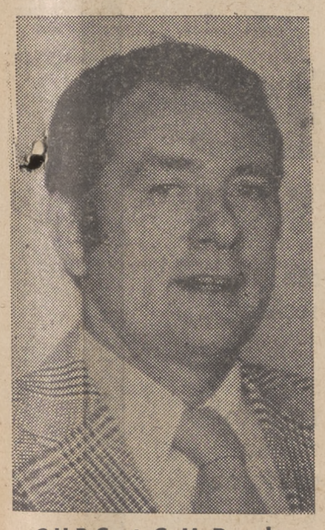
DECEMBER

The Otay Water district tripled its rate for new home hook-ups. The charge is meant to ease the tax burden on local homeowners according to a company spokesman.

7 men and a woman were arrested and charged with a football betting operation connected with 2 L.G. beer bars.

Construction continued on 2 new motels, the EZ-8 on Broadway and the Oak Inn at Broadway and Corona.

Ask Your C.H.P.



C.H.P Capt. C. M. Douglas

This week Captain Douglas discusses speed in the fast lane and speed on mopeds.

If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It could save your life — or at least save you a citation.

Address your questions to this newspaper, and allow several weeks for your question to appear.

I was told that you can get a ticket for impeding traffic by driving at 55 mph in the fast lane on a freeway.

No, you cannot be cited if you're traveling at 55 mph, even though you might be impeding some potential speeders. It is a good idea if you change to another lane, because drivers behind will let emotion rule their driving behavior and they will in all likelihood make an unsafe pass or speed up more than they originally intended. I am not condoning their speed but merely trying to advise the avoidance of any conflict. You cannot be expected to exceed 55 mph but the impending violation is different in say a 35 mph speed limit zone.

What is the maximum speed I can drive my moped?

If you exceed 30 mph on level ground, you must have a Class 4 license (motorcycle endorsement) and have the moped licensed as a motorcycle. In fact a new law effective January 1, 1979 states it is unlawful to operate any vehicle upon a highway which was originally manufactured as a motorized bicycle, which has been modified so as to no longer conform to the definition of a motorized bicycle. By definition a motorized bicycle cannot be capable of exceeding 30 mph on level ground.

Students Look At Mass Media In UCSD Course

"New Perspectives on Mass Culture," a multi-lecture course for the public which will survey the effects of the increasing documentation of our thoughts and desires by mass culture, will be offered this winter by UC San Diego Extension.

The 8-session class which meets Thursday evenings beginning Jan. 11 will be coordinated by Sandra Dijkstra, Ph. D., a writer and researcher on French literature and women's studies, and author of a forthcoming article on "Simone de Beauvoir and Betty Friedan: The Politics of Omission." and other articles.

DMV Warns ORV Owners To Register

Get a moped, boat, or snowmobile for Christmas?

The California Department of Motor Vehicles reminds motorists that there are registration requirements for all such vehicles, except for the motorized bicycles known as mopeds.

Although mopeds are not registered by DMV, motorists are urged to check with local authorities to determine if there are local ordinances on the licensing of mopeds.

No point to giving a moped to anyone under 15½ years, the minimum age at which the recipient can apply for an instruction permit. He or she also must have successfully completed driver education and driver training.

One who already has a driver's license need not take a special examination to operate a moped. A special test is required to operate a motorcycle, however.

The State's financial responsibility (insurance) laws do apply to moped drivers, just as they do for any other motorists.

Off-highway vehicles such as snowmobiles, dirt bikes, mini bikes, dune buggies, and other all-terrain vehicles also must be registered with the department.

If the vehicle is purchased from an individual rather than from a dealer, it is the responsibility of both buyer and seller to sign the ownership certificate (pink slip) and notice of transfer. The transfer fee is $3. Before title can be transferred, the recipient of the gift vehicle or vessel must sign the transfer documents.

Symphony Names Eros Conductor

Music Director Peter Eros has been named conductor laureate for the 1980-81 season, it was announced by the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association's president, Paul I. Stevens.

Stevens commented, "We all very happy that the special recognition Peter Eros deserves for the dedication he has brought to building our orchestra can be expressed in the allocade of Conductor Laureate for the 1980-81 season. We value his continuing artistic expression with the San Diego Orchestra."

In the 1979/1980 season, in addition to holding the position of music director, Eros is scheduled to conduct 9 subscription weeks. He will also be traveling extensively in his role as international guest conductor, and will continue as chief conductor with the Australian Broadcasting Commission's Orchestras.

A Free Year of Home Federal Sunshine

Plus: 4 easy-to-keep New Year's resolutions

Start your year in the sun with a FREE 1979 planning calendar from Home Federal. Beautiful 11″ x 9″ full-color photographs of California in the sun with generous spaces for each day's notes. There is a limited supply available through January 10th, so we ask that you visit us soon and only take one per family please.

I will double my money in less than 9 years.

You can. With Home Federal's 8% investment certificates. A $1,000 minimum balance is required, but there is no upper limit on how much money you can deposit. The chart below shows the attractive possibilities.

I will start building my own retirement fund.

If you're not covered by a pension plan, you really should start your own. It's easy, with Individual Retirement Accounts and Keogh plans. They allow you to accumulate funds for retirement while enjoying excellent tax advantages. Visit any Home Federal office for all the details. And, make sure you ask about the new Defined Benefit Keogh plans—where you can set aside up to $14,900 a year—with a minimum amount of paperwork.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY IN 8 YEARS 8 MONTHS WITH OUR 8% INVESTMENT CERTIFICATES

INITIAL DEPOSIT	BALANCE IN 8 YEARS 8 MONTHS[3]	8% Annual Interest[1] 8.33% Annual Yield[2] 8-10 year term $1,000 minimum balance
$ 1,000	$ 2,001
$ 5,000	$10,006
$10,000	$20,013

[1]Federal regulations require a substantial interest forfeiture for early withdrawal of term accounts. Interest is compounded daily and computed on a 365-day basis.
[2]Yearly earnings if interest is left in account for one year.
[3]This amount is based on leaving the principal and interest in the account for the full term.

I will figure out a way to earn some interest on those dollars in my checking account.

A $1,000 balance in a 5¼% savings account at Home Federal entitles you to Money Mover service. With it, you can shift your checking dollars to your Home Federal savings account and back again with a phone call. While the dollars are at Home Federal, they earn 5¼% interest. Money Mover–it's a real money maker.

I will earn a lot of interest—fast.

Home Federal has a short-term investment that's long on profits. It's called the T-Certificate and it pays high interest and high yield in 26 short weeks. There's a $10,000 minimum deposit required to get started. Remember, the Home Federal T-Certificate earns ¼% more than comparable bank certificates, and interest is paid from the date of deposit to date of withdrawal. Federal regulations require substantial interest penalty on early withdrawal of term accounts. Earn a lot of interest—fast. Visit Home Federal for details on this guaranteed investment today!
